

Irish Examiner

Martin O'Leary has been appointed as senior account manager with Data Edge, the network and application performance management company. His specific remit is to extend telecom network management, air traffic control monitoring systems, and power monitoring. His prior roles include head of enterprise solutions group Ireland at Ricoh Ireland and pre-sales technical consultant at Corrata. He holds a degree in Engineering from WIT and a Masters in Energy Management from DIT. Martin also has experience working with clients in the Telecom space during his time as Service Engineer and Solution Architect with Ericsson.

Irish Examiner
18th June 2021